Hoffman, for the Cubs, did not have a put-out at first base. This is probably a record in a full game in a big league. The Cubs fell down after six straight. The Nationals made five runs in five games at Boston. That explains, in part, the five defeats.

There was some crowding around the fighter, the same interest on the part of looked like that marked the arrival earlier in the week of the "hope of the white race.'

Places of advantage were secured far and the dozen or so newspaper photographers who are dancing attendance upon the fighters commandeered several autos

Unfortunately for them the rear car, which was given over to the colored man and his helpers, came to a stop fully 100 feet away from the wating camera men. Always obliging, however, Johnson posed patiently in all sorts of attitudes once he had gained the automobile which was set aside for him, and was then whirled away to the Golden Hotel for a short stop. The cars were closely scanned as the train slid into the depot.

Jeffries unexpectedly donned the boxing gloves at an early morning hour. He think he's going broke? was induced to do this because of the small crowd, although it had not been expected that there would be any work of the kind until after noon. The boxing was with Armstrong and Choynski, and was more wrestling than boxing. Critics think the big fellow is somewhat high in flesh, and that he has taken on five or six pounds as a result of his enforced lay-off.

In response to requests for a direct statement on his attitude as regards the Jeffries-Johnson fight, Acting Gov. Dickerson to-day sent the following dispatch to Tex Rickard:
